

The Global Crisis and Promise of Higher Education

A Webinar and In-Person Series
September 2012 - May 2013

Co-sponsored by the Faculty Seminar at Kean University and 4Humanities

Dr. JEFFREY TONEY and CORINA HERNANDEZ

Session Leaders for Nov. 12, 2012 | 3:20-4:20 pm (Eastern Time)

Public Investment in Higher Education: Ushering Our Campuses Into the 21st Century

Jeffrey Toney is Vice President of Academic Affairs and Corina Hernandez is a Public Administration major, both at Kean University. A white paper they co-authored on a related topic may be accessed at <http://bit.ly/keanpub>

Recognizing the growing cracks in the conventional structures of higher education, this series will explore the dimensions of the sea change that is transforming the way faculty teach and conduct research. The project's purpose is to determine where and how change is occurring, its implications for pedagogy and scholarship, and its benefits and liabilities.

Key observers at universities, foundations, and the media, as well as education entrepreneurs, are invited to speak and participate in this monthly video conference conversation. In addition, the series will produce a white paper on new directions in higher education, a compendium of recorded presentations, a Web page of resources, and other social media for further discussion.

Event Schedule and Speakers

September 10, 2012	Debbie Morrison, Online Learning Insights
October 15, 2012	James Lerman, Kean Univ.
November 12, 2012	Jeffrey Toney & Corine Hernandez, Kean Univ.
December 10, 2012	Philip Schmidt, Western Governors Univ.
February 11, 2013	Alan Liu, 4Humanities & Univ. of California, Santa Barbara
March 18, 2013	Mia Zamora, Kean University
April 8, 2013	Michael Horn, Innosight Institute
May 13, 2013	TBA

All sessions are on Mondays from 3:20-4:20 pm, Eastern Time

Further Information

Time zone converter at <http://bit.ly/2times2>

Register at: <http://bit.ly/KEANhiedWBNR> (case sensitive)

Upon registration you will receive login instructions via email

